DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

As the only domestic violence safehouse in Weld County, A Woman’s Place is a critical lifeline for our community. Nicole’s story is an example of how our services impact lives.

It was 2 a.m. in the middle of a thunderstorm. Nicole was soaking wet, barefoot, and afraid. She had just left home, escaped from abuse, and ran through the mud to her neighbor’s house to call the police. The police drove her to A Woman’s Place (AWP) for safety. Once she arrived at AWP, staff assessed her immediate need for medical attention, gave her clothing, food, and toiletries, and showed her to her bedroom. Nicole was able to take a hot shower and had a warm, safe place to sleep. After a few days, AWP staff helped Nicole receive behavioral health support, assistance in transferring her job to a new location, as well as find stable housing.

A Woman’s Place exists to help hundreds of survivors each year just like Nicole. Our eight-bedroom facility provides shelter and crisis support while empowering survivors of domestic violence to rebuild their lives.

Once we’ve made sure a client has a safe, stable place to stay, we help them set goals to achieve long-term stability. By connecting survivors to housing, legal services, employment, and behavioral health support, we provide not just the escape and safety they need, but also the foundation for them to rebuild their lives.

Over the past ten years, A Woman’s Place staff members have answered 7,751 crisis phone calls and 60 percent of the advocates at AWP are bilingual. We provided services to survivors in 9 languages. During 2022, AWP provided safe shelter and advocacy for 385 individuals.

A Woman’s Place will celebrate its 45th anniversary in 2023. We would not have been able to empower survivors of domestic violence over the last 4 decades without the support of our community. Please consider helping us continue to do so.

Your support is greatly appreciated and more impactful than we can say. Thank you for assisting A Woman’s Place in our pursuit to help survivors find safety and rebuild their lives free from violence.

Thank you,

DIANE HELDT,
Executive Director
